Dear Parents,

My name is Jennifer Rohleder and I am so excited to be joining the teaching team at SnoSprings School! I look forward to creating a warm, inviting classroom where your child will learn and grow.

I received my Bachelor of Arts Degree in English from UCLA and continued my education at Loyola Marymount University in Los Angeles, earning a Master of Arts degree in Education. I began my career at a private school in Los Angeles, teaching in a combined K-1 classroom. I taught in Los Angeles for four years and ultimately became the curriculum coordinator for the three K-1 classes.

During that time, I got married, and my husband was transferred to Amsterdam, The Netherlands. In Amsterdam, I taught pre-kindergarten for two years at The International School of Amsterdam, a private school that teaches expatriate children from diverse backgrounds. I had the opportunity to work with children and colleagues from every corner of the world and to gain invaluable cultural, personal and professional experience.

Upon returning to the United States, I taught Kindergarten for one year in a public school in Newport Beach, California, until my oldest daughter was born. We moved to the Seattle area in 2001 and since then, I have dedicated myself to raising our four children (ages 16, 15, 12 and 9).

After 16 years of staying home with our children, I am thrilled to return to teaching and feel so fortunate to have found a place at SnoSprings School. My goal is to create a positive learning environment where students can reach their fullest potential, both academically and socially. I want students to be confident learners who strive to do their best, work hard and persevere through challenges. More importantly, I want children to treat one another with kindness, compassion and respect.

We are going to have a great year! Please let me know if you have any question or would like to further discuss my teaching philosophy.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Rohleder
